Focusing on the love of God over and above the physical level keeps the pain away. Instead of wondering how things will work out use the spiritual perception:

Trust in Him with all thy heart and he will direct thy path with the right and perfect answer!!

My Mom would often write her prayers and below please find one of them:

"I give thanks I am divinely blessed with right and perfect health in every cell of my body. I know I am healed now and eternally. I see you now a totally and completely healed healthy body. Every cell in your body is complete with right and perfect health. The proof of your healing is in your right and perfect tumor marker which is the proof your Dr. desires. (Your Name) I see you now in total control of your right and perfect health which is your right and perfect condition. Everything you think is your divine design which is right and perfect. You are now through with your demonstrations. You are now living, in fact, you are truly a healed healthy body and soul."
